Nestled in the charming, historic artistic village of Galisteo, 794 Camino Los Abuelos and its two adjacent lots offer a unique 70-acre equestrian compound full of western charm and ripe with opportunity. The property features five fenced pastures and two horse/hay barns, catering perfectly to equestrian needs. Additionally, the estate's two adjoining separately deeded lots offer potential for enhancement. The primary lot boasts a Northern New Mexican style 2-bedroom main house, exuding substance and warmth with its plaster walls and a cozy living room fireplace. The brick-floored portal off the back of the house, with a covered outdoor dining area and a hot tub, offers breathtaking southern mountain views overlooking the Galisteo Basin and the Cerro Pelon Ranch – a stunning setting for sunset views on a cool summer evening. Complementing the main house, the compound includes a 1-bedroom casita, a standalone bunk shed, and a large 2-car garage with an extensive storage room, all connected to one of the horse barns. The property is gated for added privacy and security, and the expansive acreage, which was carefully manicured with horse riding in-mind, invites enjoyment of the serene high desert lifestyle.
